

Spectrum Policy: From its Foundations to its Future

Mobile wireless services and devices will play an increasingly critical role in the 21st century economy. This half-day symposium will provide a discussion of the economics, business and public policy implications of spectrum allocation and use. The symposium will be readily accessible to policymakers, legal scholars, press and members of the business community.

8:30 – 9:00 AM	Registration & Continental Breakfast
9:00 – 9:10 AM	Welcome & Opening Remarks
9:10 – 9:45 AM	Technical Tutorial on Spectrum <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Dale Hatfield – Independent Consultant and Adjunct Professor, Interdisciplinary Telecommunications Program, the University of Colorado at Boulder
9:45 – 10:45 AM	Economic Principles for a Sound Spectrum Policy: Why is Spectrum Important to the Economy? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Gerald Faulhaber – Professor of Economics, University of Pennsylvania • Gregory Rosston – Deputy Director, The Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research • Lawrence White – Professor of Economics, New York University • Moderator: Scott Wallsten – Senior Policy Fellow, The Georgetown Center for Business and Public Policy
10:45 – 11:45 AM	Emerging Policy Issues <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Angela Giancarlo – Chief of Staff & Senior Legal Advisor, Wireless & International, FCC • George Ou – Technology Consultant • Marius Schwartz – Professor of Economics, Georgetown University • Thomas Seitz – Senior Vice President, Lehman Brothers, Equity Research – Telecom Services • Moderator: John Mayo – Professor of Economics, Business and Public Policy, Georgetown University
11:45 – 12:00 PM	Closing Remarks

This program is sponsored by The Georgetown Center for Business and Public Policy, a non-partisan research center housed at Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business. The Center was created in 2001 to encourage dialogue and to document and disseminate knowledge on a range of issues in the public interest. Our mission is to engage scholars, business people and policymakers in relevant inquiries and dialogue to impact key business, economic and ethical public policy issues confronting American and international businesses today. The McDonough School has an international focus, a rigorous academic environment, and a diverse student body that make the Georgetown experience unique. Within that framework, the center stands as a creative and intellectual marketplace for thoughtful exploration and careful testing of ideas on real world problems.

Friday, April 25, 2008

Georgetown University
 Law Center
 Gewirz Building
 120 F Street NW
 12th Floor

8:30 AM – 12:00PM

Continental breakfast will be served

RSVP to The Georgetown Center for Business and Public Policy at kkc3@georgetown.edu before 4/24/08.

This event is open to the public. Members of the press are encouraged to attend, and can register with Andy Pino at pinoa@georgetown.edu.

The Georgetown Center for Business and Public Policy does not employ or retain a federal lobbyist.