Hi! My name is Erin Timochenko and I am a McDonough peer ambassador!

Hometown: Reading, Pennsylvania

Class: 2016

Major: International Business and Management

Extracurricular Activities:
I am a part of the Varsity Swim team, The Hoya, Grassroots Hoyas, and the Entrepreneurship Fellowship Program and The Student Athletic Advisory Committee.

Interesting Fact about Me: I love to travel and have been to 22 different countries.

What made you choose Georgetown's McDonough School of Business?
The balance between business curriculum and a liberal arts education drew me to the business school. That way, no matter what field I went into, I would be prepared.

What are the best things about being a Hoya?
Everyone here loves this school and is proud to wear the blue and gray. While students come from every corner of the world, we all share our love for this school and our community.

Why do you love D.C.?
There is always something to do! From going to museums to different restaurants, I love having the ability to do something different different weekend.

Share a defining and/or transformative classroom/educational moment?
When I first got to Georgetown, I had no idea what I wanted to major in and was afraid that I would never figure it out. The business school’s curriculum allowed me to explore different options and now I have fallen in love with International Business.

What is your advice to incoming Hoyas?
Get involved! Here at Georgetown there is a club for anything and everything and part of being a Hoya is interacting with students who not only share your interests, but also can show you something from a different perspective.
